

You Can Help the Bay

The Chesapeake Bay Trust has funded on-the-ground projects that restore and protect the Chesapeake Bay. Throughout the State, the Trust funds projects that:

- rebuild wetlands and marshes;
- plant trees and Bay grasses; and,
- restore oyster and fish populations.

Join us by contributing just a small portion of your tax refund to the Chesapeake Bay and Endangered Species Fund on your Maryland State Income Tax Return.

Contributions are split evenly between the Trust and DNR's Wildlife and Heritage Program and are wisely used.

- Ninety percent of the contributions to the Trust support Bay projects.
- The Wildlife and Heritage Program is protecting endangered species, such as the leatherback turtle and the bald eagle.

Check line 37 and join us in protecting Maryland's most treasured resource. To find out more, visit www.chesapeakebaytrust.org.
